

Press Release August 1, 2023

Fly Compliant, LLC is hosting its' 5th annual compliance seminar on September 7th and 8th in Nashville. This year we have set a new industry standard, with a less is more approach by introducing "Explicit Procedures" in our manual system. We are removing the bloat and unnecessary content and then offering a back-to-basic approach to training. This approach enhances efficiency and increases safety.

We will demonstrate our latest technology and compliance solution. With over 20 years of data, we have developed a continuous improvement system, keeping operators compliant and to the highest standards.

We are always asking "Why". To answer why, we are introducing the term Regulatory Scrutiny, which means:

How not only to address the regulatory requirements but how to manage the expectations of regulators.

Operators are Influenced by a constant stream of external audits which has had an unintended consequence of bloating manuals with non-regulatory requirements. In this year's seminar, we are separating policies and procedures to have an answer for what is the Regulatory Standard. We will examine regulatory bias and share what we have learned.

Our seminars are designed to address the latest compliance topics associated with part 135 operations as well as other common subjects. This year includes the following:

Seminar Topics
Latest Topics	Common Topics
Technology in the cockpit	Flight and Rest Times
SOPs vs Techniques	Operational Control
Documenting maintenance discrepancies	Part 135 to 91 to 135
Aircraft Conformity	Anti-Drug Program
Simulator training and acquiring slots	HazMat Program
Whistleblower complaints	Pilot Deviations
Working with SAS, OAPS, and WebOPSS	ASAP & SMS
